FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE / OCTOBER 13, 2026

CLARAPETRA'S POP STARS ARRIVES OCTOBER 16

Two official music films, a playable browser world and a new EDIT conversation open the release week

Clarapetra's Pop Stars is scheduled for Friday, October 16, 2026 through OMIKINA RECORDS. Ahead of the album, listeners can hear twelve era songs on Clarapetra.com, watch the official films "Train Leavin' (Part 1)" and "Andromeda (Part 2)," and enter the free, six-level Pop Stars browser game.

The films carry one story from the road into space. "Train Leavin' (Part 1)" starts the journey; "Andromeda (Part 2)" follows the escape beyond Earth. Both films are already available on Clarapetra's official YouTube channel and artist website. Authentic frames from the published films are included in the updated visual press kit.

The game turns the era into a music-driven world playable on desktop and mobile. The title song drives the journey, with "Ruby Red" taking over for the Daddy B finale. Current gameplay screenshots and a direct play link are included in the press kit.

A new OMIKINA EDIT feature, "Clarapetra: Pop Stars, Under the Light," explores the character, visual language and album world through a scripted conversation between Clarapetra and creator John N. Farmer. EDIT is affiliated with Clarapetra's creator and label. The conversation and its synthetic audio are artist-world editorial material, not an independently conducted human interview or outside review.

Created and directed by John N. Farmer, Clarapetra is a human-directed AI music artist combining cinematic noir-pop, trip-hop, glitch, jazz and visual worldbuilding. Human songwriting, creative direction, editing and final selection shape the project; AI-assisted tools contribute to music, voice, imagery and worldbuilding.
